

REFLECTIONS

Series 11, Archetypes Are Everywhere

Class Three: It's Just Business

Time for Reflection

This week's homework is a reflective assignment. Take time to think about these questions. Remember, you have never been asked these before. You have no idea how you actually feel down deep – and you need to go “deep down within” to discover how you think and feel.

Answering rapidly indicates that you have no idea whatsoever how you feel and that's that.

1. Identify the ways you think “in the box.” In what ways do you blockade new archetypal images of yourself or your potential from coming into view?
2. Throwing out shoes that were made for you: Creative ideas you have consciously dismissed because:
  - They required too much work.
  - They required too much personal effort/change/investment.
  - You wanted to see proof of success before taking the first step.
3. Fears:
  - Losing love versus financial loss: which has more power over you? Why?
  - Being dependent?
  - Being independent?
  - Being depended upon?
  - Fear of success or the fear of the responsibility that comes with being successful?
  - What is the difference for you between the fear of success and the fear of failure? Specifically describe how both would – in your mind – reshape your life.
